

TIM BRYCE - COMMON SENSE FOR UNCOMMON TIMES

"Software for the finest computer - the Mind"

4 NEW BOOKS

Tim is an essayist and radio commentator who has written on such things as business management, technology, politics, our changing world, and profiles of the American character. Tim's work varies from being educational one moment, to controversial or humorous the next. He describes it as "Software for the finest computer - the Mind" as he is asking his readers to think about things they either take for granted or simply overlook.

WHY 4 BOOKS? Ever notice how the world has changed around us? Things seem to be unnecessarily complicated; we're preoccupied with being politically correct; we micromanage everything to death; we're now obsessed with technology to the point of distraction; there is no spirit of cooperation, just stubborn independence, and; there seems to be a total void of common sense. It's not uncommon for people to ask themselves, "It's me, right?" No, you are not alone, there are a lot of people asking the same question. Author Tim Bryce has noticed and produced a series of four books under the title, "Bryce's Uncommon Sense Series." The four books include:

"ESSAYS ON OUR EVER CHANGING WORLD" - Describes cultural changes and why they occur, particularly due to technology. 115 pages; ISBN-13: 978-1503102187 ISBN-10: 1503102181

"ESSAYS ON THE AMERICAN SCENE" - Humorous descriptions of the human condition in America. 258 pages; ISBN-13: 978-1503115576 ISBN-10: 1503115577

"THE FACTS OF LIFE REGARDING MANAGEMENT" - Lessons well suited for those aspiring to become effective managers, as well as for those who require a refresher or change of focus. 175 pages; ISBN-13: 978-1503127043 ISBN-10: 1503127044

"LIBERAL KRYPTONITE" - Tim's political writings warning America about the liberal agenda. 211 pages; ISBN-13: 9211 pages; 78-1503126893 ISBN-10: 1503126897

"I enjoyed the optimism many of the articles had and I liked where you talked about generational politics. Overall, this presented optimism, hope and faith for the people of this country."
- Pat Shelton, Kansas

"I find myself not only liking the way you think and the way you write, but the way you put what's happening in our world of government regulation, technology, the medical community, and business into perspective for me. As in all of your writings, I find myself nodding my head, smiling knowingly, or laughing out loud in agreement with you..."
- Joan Schoenling, Florida
